GERMANS REFUSE TO PAY BILLION ASKED BY ALLIES

Reply to Reparations Commission Denies 12 Billion Balance.

Declares 20 Billions Demanded By Treaty Has Been More Than Paid.

Paris, March 23.—Germany, in her reply today to the recent ultimatum of the allied reparations commission, refuses to pay the one billion marks gold due on this date and disputes the commission's figures showing a balance of 12,000,000,000 marks due May 1.

It is maintained in the German note that 20,000,000,000 marks which the peace treaty provide should be handed over by May 1, has been more than paid. The note asks that a joint commission of experts fix the value of the German deliveries on reparation account, but it declares that in any event it would be impossible for Germany to pay 12,000,000,000 marks by the first of May.

The note concludes as follows: "If all the experts conferred, it is established that there is a deficit in the payment by Germany, she is ready to begin negotiations with the reparations commission regarding the floating of a loan abroad."

The reparations commission met this morning to consider the German reply, which was transmitted from Berlin last night.

The Germans failure to pay is deemed a violation of the treaty of Versailles which the commission will report to the allied governments. The allies will then determine what measures shall be taken. It is commented here that the German experts already have been heard by the commission, which listened to their arguments before fixing the valuation of the German deliveries credited as payments against the 20,000,000,000 marks.

This valuation therefore was considered final since the treaty gives the commission sole jurisdiction in the matter.

The German reply does not answer directly the commission's demand for a first payment of 1,000,000,000 marks today. (This point, however, is covered on the face of things by Germany's commitment to cover the amounts of the entire amount due by May 1.)

There is nothing said in the note, nevertheless, to show that it would be impossible for Germany to pay this 1,000,000,000 marks, which the reparations commission knows that Germany has available in gold as well as in foreign securities. It is stated.

MUTINEERS ARE CLOSELY GUARDED

Five Men Mentioned In Wall Street Bomb Plot Create Disorder on Ship Bound For South America.

New Orleans, March 23.—The five men landed in irons yesterday from the American steamer Rushville, which was held at anchor at the request of the American consul there, still were held behind a screen of secrecy today. Detained technically at the Parish jail on charge of mutiny on the high seas but said to be suspected of knowledge of the September Wall Street bomb explosion, the men claim to have no visitors and were carefully guarded by federal and police authorities.

Whether the men will be taken to New York for trial in connection with the bomb explosion or will be held here for trial on charge of mutiny, the latter part of which was decided by the result of the investigation with the New York disaster. So far as could be learned here the federal agents had not succeeded in linking them with the explosion but were still working on this angle of the case.

The five men, who were said to be seamen, and all of whom were said to be well educated, gave their names as Philip Bender, Lionel Kuebrezoff, Rudolph Dorsh, Hans Randin and Henrik Lipman. According to Captain Van Weeldern of the Rushville, they were arrested a month ago following a mutiny on the first part of the ship of the Rushville arrived at Rio de Janeiro and were landed at Rio de Janeiro.

Later the American consul at Rio de Janeiro had them put aboard the Munson liner Yoro to be returned to the United States but they created such disorder that the Yoro's command quickly turned the ship around and the Rushville arrived at Rio a similar request was made by the consul upon Captain Van Weeldern. He agreed to bring the prisoners to New Orleans.

Just how their names were brought into the Wall Street explosion had not been made clear here.

EGGS DOWN TO 24 CENTS RETAIL TODAY

Eggs were cheaper this morning on the market than they have been for the past few years. With the dealers paying 18 and 19 cents since Tuesday, the average retail price this morning was 25 cents a dozen. The lowest mark reached was 24 cents a dozen.

Strawberries have dropped to five cents on the pint since Saturday and are selling at 25 cents a pint or two pints for 45 cents. Trading on the market today was slow.

RADICAL CRIMES RENEWED.

Madrid, March 23.—Renewal of syndicalist crimes at Barcelona is reported in dispatches received here. Jose Roman, a dairy proprietor, was fired upon by a gang of gun men last night and later died in a hospital, having been struck by four bullets. A short time later another gang shot and killed Emilio Corvera, a watch case maker and a member of a Free Syndicate.

SHE DOESN'T WANT NEW JOBS CREATED JUST FOR WOMEN

Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams.

Mrs. Annette Abbott Adams, assistant attorney general of the United States, scores the tendency of men to create new positions for women instead of giving them a chance at jobs already existing. "The men want to create new jobs for women in order to prevent us from meddling with the things they like to do themselves," is Mrs. Adams' opinion.

CARDINAL GIBBONS IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Weather Conditions Bring Relapse After Eminent Church Man Apparently Recovers From Previous Illness.

Baltimore, Md., March 23.—Cardinal Gibbons passed a restless night and was weaker this morning, his secretary, the Rev. Albert E. Smith, said and stating however that the doctor had reported the patient's pulse to be good and had told the members of the household that there was no immediate danger unless something unforeseen occurred.

His heart action was said to be weak and his temperature low. No attempt was made to minimize the gravity of the cardinal's case by members of his household or his physician. The latter said the prelate's condition was very serious and that he would have to be watched constantly. He is unconscious a part of the time. The doctor attributed the change to the unusually warm weather of last Sunday.

Since his return in January to the archiepiscopal residence from the home of friends at Union Mills, Maryland, where he became seriously ill last December, the cardinal's condition apparently had continued to improve. He was able to take automobile rides almost daily and also was able to walk about his home.

On December 1, when the prelate suffered a general breakdown due to his unremitting devotion to his diocesan duties in spite of his 85 years. Evidence that the strain was beginning to tell on him was given as early as November 7, when he was seized with a severe attack of faintness while delivering a sermon at Havre de Grace.

The change for the worse in Cardinal Gibbons' condition occurred last night, Sunday night but announcement of the fact was withheld in the hope that the bad turn would prove to be only temporary. As time went on, however, instead of improving, his condition became graver and it was decided to let his friends know the unfavorable state of affairs.

Ever since he was taken ill, the cardinal's condition has shown marked reaction to extreme weather conditions. During the very cold spell some weeks ago he suffered a relapse, it was learned today, but recovered from it in a few days and was able to resume his automobile rides. He took the last of these on Palm Sunday, but when he returned, it was seen that the heat was exerting a weakening effect upon him. He was at once put to bed and everything possible was done to stimulate his heart action. He has since had several of the sinking spells that are so much dreaded.

NEWARK MUST FIGHT FOR CLINIC

Two Other Ohio Towns Are Making An Aggressive Campaign to Secure Child Health Bureau.

Newark and Licking county must put up a lively fight if the National Child Health demonstration, be secured for this county.

Middletown, is a factor which is developing strongly in the race, and Mansfield is putting up a big effort to secure it. A meeting of the committee recently named for the child health clinic will be held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock. Ways and means to further the efforts of Newark will be discussed. It is probable that Miss Natalie Merrill, chief of the bureau of child hygiene of the state health department will be here.

In the afternoon the state health department will hold a free clinic for crippled children at 6 o'clock. Already 27 petitions have been presented asking the national council to favorably consider Newark.

The last petition was submitted today by the Licking County Medical society.

COMMITTEE URGES REGISTRATION OF ALL AUTOMOBILES

Five Other Laws Dealing With Motor Vehicles Are Reported.

Bill of Sale Must Accompany Each Transaction When Car Is Sold.

Columbus, March 23.—The house judiciary committee today indefinitely postponed the proposal to provide a code of automobile laws for Ohio, and reported out six individual bills, pertaining to regulations of automobile traffic and sale.

It is understood that Representative Boylan of Summit county is drafting a code on the subject, which he expects to introduce Thursday.

Among those recommended for passage by the committee is that by Senator Atwood of Columbus, providing for the registration of all machines and the filing of a bill of sale with the clerk of courts, whenever a car, new or used, is sold, as a means of identifying every machine and preventing traffic in stolen cars. This measure was passed by the senate on February 2. Another bill recommended by the committee provides penalties for negligence in the operation of cars by drivers as well as owners.

Enactment of an income tax as a prerequisite to any loosening up of the uniform rule may be the basis for a constitutional amendment to be submitted to the legislature, developed from the recommendations of Governor Davis' citizens committee.

An amendment with such a base was said to be incurring most favors among members of a sub committee of the house general taxation committee which was appointed last night to draft an amendment. Such an amendment, it was said, would contemplate extension of property from the general property tax if the property paid an income tax. The amendment proposed by the governor's committee did not contemplate such exemption. It was said.

The senate spent most of the afternoon probably will tighten up on provisions for classification, which uniform rule advocates declare is left wide open in the governor's committee's recommendation, making it impossible for the legislature to classify property unless the income tax fails to bring in sufficient revenue. The sub-committee is under instruction to report its draft of the amendment to the committee today and if such is done, the committee may introduce it in the house late in the afternoon. Freeman of general taxation committee has announced that hearings will be conducted on the amendment after its introduction.

The recommendation by the governor's committee relative to rate limitations in the general property tax, 12 mills for rural communities and 15 mills for cities, is expected to be approved, as also the provisions for exempting household goods up to $500. The present exemption is $100.

The house yesterday passed the occupational disease bill, which brings 15 occupational diseases under the workmen's compensation law, and the Dunn bill providing for establishment of an Americanization department under the superintendent of public instructions. Both measures now go to the senate.

The senate spent most of the time yesterday in discussing the bill, fixing a standard for ice cream, which it finally passed after the standard had been cut from 12 per cent butter fat, as originally proposed, to eight per cent.

Neither house had any measures of great importance on its calendar for consideration today. The constabulary bill was restored to the house calendar last night by the agriculture committee which reported it out without recommendation.

HEALTH BOARDS OPPOSE PLANS

Governor Davis' Reorganization Proposed Is Discussed By Public Health Officials at Open Hearing

Columbus, March 23.—Opposition to Governor Davis' administrative code for the reorganization of state government was voiced today by representatives of public health organizations and various professions of public education. Health workers, physicians, nurses, dentists, druggists, embalmers and other groups appealed to the senate committee on administrative reorganization asking that the health department and the examining boards be left alone. It was charged that the proposed change would throw them into "practical politics."

This was the first public hearing before the senate committee. Those interested in the proposed public welfare department and the department of highways and public works will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

No attempt has yet been made to pass a bill to amend the constitution to make the bill a party measure. Several senators are said to be preparing to wage a fight against the passage of the bill as an emergency measure. They may appeal to the governor, it is said, asking him not to demand its passage as an emergency in view of the many protests that have been registered against the provisions of the bill.

Attorney Clarence D. Laylin explained the provisions of the reorganization bill to the senate committee last night. Mr. Laylin assisted in the drafting of the bill.

These photos, received from Germany, show the actual occupation of Germany's industrial center by allied troops to "punish" Germany for her failure to comply with the demands of the allied reparations commission. Four important cities, Dusseldorf, Duisburg, Ruhrort and Hamborn, are occupied by French, Belgian and British forces in war trim.

JAPANESE FISHING WILL BE GUARDED

Foreign Minister Says Government Will Take Necessary Steps to Guard Interests In Eastern Russia.

Tokio, March 23.—Japan will be obliged to adopt what ever action may be deemed to preserve her rights in Kamchatka, if the Russian far eastern republic persists in its course of transferring a part of that peninsula to the authority if the Russian Soviet government, Viscount Uchida, foreign minister, declared in the house of peers here today.

After stating that Japan had recently received information that this transfer had been made he said this country had sent a protest to the far eastern republic administration at Chita, and had submitted five demands. He declared that these demands had not yet been accepted.

Japan has extensive fishery interest in Kamchatka. This report of the transfer of part of the peninsula of Kamchatka to the Soviet government in Moscow appears to have a direct bearing upon concessions granted there to Washington by Vanderlip of California by the Bolshevik regime in Russia. The concession, covering the exploitation of the oil, coal and fishery interests of Kamchatka, was granted last year.

Mr. Vanderlip left the United States for Russia early in February and arrived in Moscow on March 8. Since that time official statements made by leaders of the Bolshevik government have indicated a reversal in economic and political policies by the Bolsheviks and a more friendly attitude seems to have been adopted by the Bolshevik government toward the concession granted by the American interests represented by Mr. Vanderlip would be worked by Russian labor.

It was declared that the concession was granted without restrictions as to methods of development, the Bolsheviks having waived their original demand that the exploitation of the property should be carried out under Soviet laws.

The rights of the Far Eastern republic have been in the past considered a formidable obstacle to the consummation of the transaction by which American interests would secure the concession.

GIRL SENDS STAMP FOR BUTALFO FOR HER PET

Washington, March 23.—The forestry service asked recently if any one wanted a buffalo, having a score on hand to dispose of. Apparently the answer was "everybody does" for the service has been deluged with requests.

One little girl sent two cent stamp, expecting a baby buffalo by return mail for her backyard zoo. A farmer with 150 acres and five children wanted a family playmate. Stock men wanted to try cross breeding. Wild west shows rushed in applications by mail and telegraph and the supply was quickly exhausted despite the warning that a lusty bull buffalo eats two tons of hay a year.

AMERICANS GET PRISON TERMS

German Criminal Court Sends Detectives to Jail For Part In Attempt to Kidnap Bergdoll.

Mosbach, Baden, March 23.—Carl Neuf and Franz Zimmer, American detectives have been sentenced to terms in prison in criminal court here for "illegal assumption of power" in attempting to arrest and abduct Grover C. Bergdoll, American draft evader, in Eberbach last January. Neuf, against whom a charge of "inflicting bodily injury" had been preferred, was sentenced to jail for 15 months, while Zimmer's term in prison was fixed at six months. The additional charge against Neuf arose from a bullet wound suffered by a young woman, when a revolver was fired during the attempted abduction.

Four Germans, who were tried as accessories of the Americans were found guilty and sent to jail for terms varying from five to 11 months. It was shown one had driven the detectives car, and that the other three had accompanied the two Americans on their trip to apprehend Bergdoll in Eberbach.

In passing sentence on Neuf, the German court declared the American detective was aware that aside from the charge of deserting no other indictment was pending against Bergdoll but that nevertheless the detective had attempted to arrest Bergdoll without the cooperation of the German police and had used an illegal assumption of authority in occupied Germany. The use of a weapon, declared the court, constituted "negligent infliction of bodily injury."

The penalty upon Neuf was fixed at 15 months in jail, the court said, because the detectives conduct constituted "a gross breach of the law and an invasion of the rights of the German authorities."

The six defendants were assessed the cost of the trial. Each was credited on his jail sentence with eight weeks of preliminary confinement.

STILLMAN INCOME $536,000 IN 1920

Attorney Tells Court In Alimony Suit That His Client Will Pay Reasonable Alimony.

White Plains, N. Y., March 23.—A definite charge that Mrs. Anne U. Stillman, wife of James A. Stillman, president of the National City Bank of New York, was the mother of a child by an Indian guide was made in supreme court here today by counsel for Mr. Stillman during preliminary arguments in the divorce suit the bank president has brought.

Addressing Justice Morschauser, who presided at the hearing on alimony and counsel fees, Delancey Nicoll, chief counsel for Mr. Stillman said:

"Evidence already before you shows that Mrs. Stillman took as her lover an Indian guide by whom she had an infant son, whom Mr. Stillman must either acknowledge as a member of his family or repudiate as illegitimate."

"This criminal intimacy began in 1916 and continued through 1919. Mr. Stillman feels his duty to his father's memory to his family and to his children to press this matter to a conclusion. Had it been possible to do this otherwise than in court proceedings he would have done it. But there was no other way than to make the mother and child co-defendants in a suit."

Mr. Nicoll said he could not understand the feelings of a father whose wife yielded to the embrace of an Indian guide "but that he could understand why he would hesitate to take court action under such circumstances."

The hearing lasted only about half an hour. When it was adjourned at 10:25, Justice Morschauser reserved decision on the motions before him before him alimony of $10,000 a month and counsel fees of $25,000 for Mrs. Stillman.

The question of Mr. Stillman's income which finally was admitted by one of his lawyers to have been $536,000 in 1920. Counsel for the defendant had claimed it amounted to $800,000 or $1,000,000.

"We have tendered a stipulation," said Mr. Nicoll. "To the effect that the plaintiff is able to pay any reasonable sum to the defendant that your honor might allow."

In making his charges against Mrs. Stillman—the former "Fifi" Potter—Mr. Nicoll said that his client had refused to credit for a long time—any thought which might have occurred after they may have implicated herself."

Cincinnati, March 23.—Cobwebs on his hat led to the arrest of a man who registered as John Rayner, 30, Hartford, Conn., on the charge of annoying a five-year-old girl. The child told the police that the man enticed her into a cellar at 607 Broadway. Quite a crowd collected as police captured the man in a cafe at Sixth street and Broadway, where he was pointed out because of the cobwebs on his hat. He had tried to borrow a brush to remove them, the police were told.

ATTERBURY STILL OPPOSES RULES OF RAIL UNIONS

Hearing Adjourns at Noon Until Tomorrow For Rebuttal.

Pennsy Official Declares Agreements Lost $300,000 Annually.

Chicago, March 23.—Cross examination of high railroad officials by labor union representatives before the railroad labor board was completed today when Brigadier General W. W. Atterbury, vice president of the Pennsylvania, finished his third day of testimony.

Today's hearing found general Atterbury still unshaken in his opposition to any railroad rules which were national in scope despite attempts by Mr. Walsh to cite some rule which the Pennsylvania officials would agree could be applied nationally with benefit to both employer and employee.

General Atterbury countered today by admitting that some principles might be all right nationally but called attention to the distinction between principles and rules.

General Atterbury also repeated his charge that the national agreements caused the roads a loss of $300,000,000 annually and submitted a table compiled by the Association of Railroad executives from interstate commerce commission figures which he said proved his contention.

The hearing adjourned at noon and tomorrow B. M. Jewell of the labor side will start his formal rebuttal testimony in the rules hearings.

CHARLES HINDEL DIES SUDDENLY

Former Police Chief and Deputy Sheriff Succumbs to Attack of Heart Trouble In County Court House.

Charles Huntington Hindel, 71, former chief of police and deputy sheriff, dropped dead at 11:30 this morning while descending the steps in the court house. Mr. Hindel was coming down the steps from the court room into the rotunda when he fell. County Commissioner John McCracken went to Mr. Hindel, assisted him to the ground, but he was probably dead, as Dr. Baxter who arrived five minutes later pronounced him dead. He fell about four or five steps and there was a deep gash in the back of his head. Dr. Baxter stated that his neck was not broken and that the skull was not fractured and that his death was due to heart trouble.

Shortly before going to the court house Mr. Hindel had called at the jewelry store of his son-in-law, Fred P. Fuchs, in North Park Place, and said to Mr. Fuchs to tell his daughter, Mrs. Fuchs, that he was feeling fine and laughingly said that he thought he would go fishing.

Crisis Brothers ambulance was called and arrived in a few seconds. When he was pronounced dead the body was removed to their establishment in West Main street and prepared for burial.

Coroner S. S. Richards viewed the body at Crisis Brothers.

Mr. Hindel was born August 12, 1849, in Brownsville and was the son of Jacob and Ellen Hindel. He came to Newark with the family when a small boy and almost his entire life was spent here.

On August 16, 1881, he was married to Ellen Anne Wiley, whose death occurred May 20, 1917.

He was a printer by trade and was employed at the American-Tribune for 21 years under Captain Lyon, then the owner.

For four years he was a guard at the Ohio Penitentiary and after returning to Newark was made deputy sheriff under Smith L. Redman. In 1916, upon the resignation of Chief Bergdoll, he was made chief of police under Mayor Ankele.

He was a member of the Royal Arcanum lodge.

One daughter, Mrs. Fred P. Fuchs, and a grandson, Charles Hindel Fuchs, survive.

The body will be taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fuchs, at 1000 street. Funeral arrangements not yet completed.

APPEAL FOR CORN IS RENEWED HERE

Each Farmer Is Asked to Give Bushel and a Half Out of Each Hundred Bushels Harvested.

A further appeal is being made to the farmers of Licking county to contribute their quota to the gift corn, being collected for the United States for the starving children of Europe.

The individual quota based upon the last crop returns is one and one-half per cent of the harvest or 1 1/2 bushels per hundred, 15 bushels per thousand. The relief committee has asked for shell white corn but as that is impossible in this county it will accept yellow ear corn or white but prefer yellow as unmixed loads could be traded for white to better advantage. In cash it is preferred to give cash or wheat the quota is figured at 60 cents a bushel for corn.

The donors have been asked to notify the township director of the amount to be given so that arrangements can be made for cars to take care of it. Action should not be delayed later than March 31, Saturday, April 9 will be designated "County Gift Corn Day," when it must be delivered to the designated shipping point. Other cities and counties are responding enthusiastically, the local officials say.

The children of the public schools donated $800 to the cause and about $1300 more has been subscribed through the churches and individuals.

In loving memory of our beloved wife and mother, who departed this life March 22, 1914.

Seven years have passed, our hearts still sore,
As time goes on we miss you more;
Your cheerful voice, your welcome face,
No one can fill your vacant place.

Your memory is as dear today
As at the time you passed away;
When days are dark and friends are few
Mother dear how we long for you.

We often sit and think of you
When we are all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call it's own.

Like ivy on the withered oak,
When all the flowers decay,
Our love for you will still keep green
And never fade away.

The woman who values her hair will do well, therefore, to give it special attention in the spring. It will surprise you to see how the hair will respond to a little judicious treatment. Massage of the hair is the first requisite when it begins to fall out, and the use of a good hair tonic will help much. Have a thorough massage once a week and every night massage the scalp yourself with your finger tips, applying a little of whatever tonic is recommended by your hair dresser.

Milady's Boudoir

The Hair in the Spring.
Even the most luxuriant head of hair will begin to show signs of deterioration of oil and dandruff and the combing of the hair when it is combed or brushed.

The hair is apt to fall out in the most irritating way. Combings of the cherished tresses leave the head at every going up of the hair in the morning, and the love locks on the forehead and temples, that should fluff out becomingly under a hat brim, have a distressing way of falling in limp wisps an hour or so after being carefully waved.

BAD BREATH

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets Get at the Cause and Remove It

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, act gently on the bowels and positively do the work.

People afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

All the benefits of nasty, sickening, griping cathartics are derived from Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets without griping, pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after seventeen years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color. Take one or two every night for a week and note the effect. 15c and 30c.

SPRING WEIRD IDEAS

"Inventors" Relieve Monotony
for British Commission.

One Would Freeze the Clouds So Guns
Could Be Mounted on Them to Repel Air Attacks.

London.—The report recently issued by the royal commission on awards to inventors calls to mind both the new powerful engines of destruction the war brought into being, and also the many weird and impracticable ideas advanced by "inventors" who had evolved curious plans for winning the war. A one-time member of the war inventions department of the ministry of munitions told of one man who sent in an invention which he said could freeze clouds so that guns could be mounted on them for firing at aircraft and bombing enemy lines. He was kindly but firmly led to the door, but before he left managed to explain a scheme he had for suspending heavy guns from captive balloons.

One inventor wished to project heat waves against airplanes and so destroy them. Part of his plan was to set up electric fields that would paralyze the magnetism of enemy airplanes when they attempted an attack. None of these enthusiasts seemed to realize the limitations of their suggestions. A man planned to attach searchlights to anti-aircraft guns, and so fire along the beam of light. He neglected the fact that the path of a shell and the path of a ray of light are somewhat different.

Among other weird inventions was one for throwing live wire cables against the enemy, using rockets to get the cables across No Man's Land. It was suggested that a tunnel be built all the way into Germany, and also that trained cormorants be sent to pick the mortar out of the chimneys of the Krupp factories at Essen.

LEPROSY OIL CURE SUCCESS

Need for Mission Near Honolulu Decreases—To Abandon It in Few Years.

Honolulu, T. H.—The Catholic leper mission on the island of Molokai, where Father Damien passed the greater part of his life and eventually died of the disease, and where Brother Dutton and others of his faith now are at work, probably will be abandoned in the course of a few years, owing to the great success of the chaulmoogra oil treatment of the lepers, according to a statement by Brother Louis Leiserson, who for twenty-two years has been stationed at the leper mission.

Five years ago the mission at Kalaupapa, island of Molokai, had from 125 to 130 inmates, while today it has but 63, Brother Louis said. Virtually no new cases have been received during the last few years.

The mission, which was established in the sixties and in which the Catholic priests shortly after took up their work, is supported by appropriations from both the territorial and federal governments. All leper work on the island, including that of the mission, is directly under the supervision of the territorial board of health.

Labor of 200,000 Men
Support Rat Population

Washington.—It keeps 200,000 men working full time to support the nation's rat population. That assertion is made by the biological survey bureau in figures issued showing that there are as many "common brown rats" as humans in the United States, and each of the 100,000,000 or more destroy $2 worth of foodstuffs a year.

They also maintain an efficient transportation system for "black death" and other plague germs, the bureau adds in urging a starve and stay campaign to check "a real hazard against American lives and property."

ABANDONED FARMS FOR IDLE

Pennsylvania Trying to Put Men Back on Land Left Idle During War Rush.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Scores of farms in Allegheny county, abandoned in the rush from rural districts to industrial centers during the war, are being used by the farm bureau here in an effort to solve the unemployed and housing problems.

The bureau has advertised for married men who are willing to work as tenant farmers. Such men who qualify will be placed in charge of the abandoned farms, officials of the bureau say.

SMALL GIRL STAYED PANIC

Her insistence That Pet Parrot Should Be Saved Gave Fellow Passengers Time to Reason.

Kitty Barrett, eight years old, shared heroic honors with a pet parrot in a tale of fire at sea told by passengers landing from the steamship Carthage at Havana, Cuba.

The little golden-haired girl, who is a daughter of Edward Ware Barrett, a newspaper publisher of Birmingham, Ala., refused to enter a lifeboat until she had brought her parrot from her stateroom, and her insistent demand that the bird be rescued calmed some thing approaching a panic among the passengers and gave the ship's crew a chance to extinguish the flames and save the steamer.

While steaming along the coast of Panama one night, the Carthage was set on fire by an overheated motor. The blaze seemed to threaten the safety of those on board, and an alarm was sounded. The passengers gathered on deck and were ready to enter the boats, when Miss Kitty discovered she had left her parrot behind in her stateroom.

She refused to enter the boat until Capt. George A. McBride sent for the bird. Frightened men and women paused to laugh at the calmness of the child and her concern over the safety of her pet, and when the steward brought the parrot to the deck, he also announced the fire had been brought under control by the chief engineer.

CAMERA SHOWS UP DEFECTS

Why It Is Generally Necessary That Photographs of the Human Face Be Retouched.

Why does a photographer have to retouch his negatives before his customer is satisfied with the picture? The eye of the camera sees things differently from the human eye, although there are some lenses that so diffuse the image that the harsh detail is eliminated. These are the so-called "soft-focus" lenses, and photographs made with them generally need no extensive retouching.

It is the difference in "seeing color" between the lens and the eye that is largely responsible for retouching. The ruddy complexion, so suggestive of good health, under the relentless eye of the camera may turn into dark spots, for red photographs dark.

The penetrating blue-violet rays are those chiefly used in photography, and these rays furnish the delicate "modeling" of form. The surface of the skin reflects these rays into the camera, and all the irregularities of the skin, such as wrinkles, become more noticeable than when looked at with the human eye, which sees mostly by the red and orange, instead of the blue violet rays caught by the eye of the camera.—Popular Science Monthly.

Big Irrigation Project.

In the state of Washington there is under way a gigantic irrigation project which is unprecedented. It is designed to serve 1,753,000 acres with 20,000 second-feet of water at an outlay of $30,000,000. That is what has been done by the Columbia basin survey commission with a state appropriation of $100,000. In fact, the project is unprecedented as a whole as also are some of its elements compared with irrigation works heretofore executed, while in point of cost and general magnitude it is second to but few public work projects either carried out or planned. The daily capacity of the main canal and other trunk-line conduits is 1,728,000,000 cubic feet, or 12,275,000,000 gallons which is twenty-five times the carrying capacity of the Catskill aqueduct.

Woman Has Done Good Work.

Miss Gertrude Bell, the compiler of the Inner History of Mesopotamia, which has been issued by the British government in the form of a white paper, is regarded as one of the greatest authorities on the East. She has an unusual knowledge of the people, customs, language and political history of Syria, Asia Minor and Arabia, and during the war was attached to the British secret service. At times she vanished for months into the desert, and became known as the "Mystery Woman of the War."

Gloves From Interior of Whales.

Soft, pliable "kid," that is as strong and durable as its genuine prototype, from the intestines of the whale; thick sole leather of excellent quality from the lining of the whale's mouth; five or more huge split sides of tough leather from the skin of the beluga, the common dolphin of the north Pacific—these are only a few of the many revolutionary products obtained from aquatic leather, the manufacture of which has become one of the new important industries of the Pacific Northwest, says Popular Mechanics.

Nursing a Grievance.

"A number of magazine editors had a holiday banquet."

"I don't suppose there were any contributors present to spoil the pleasure of the evening?"

"None was supposed to be present, but the head waiter was a bit offish, having done something in the way of verse and had it rejected."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Domestic Colloquy.

"We can't afford to live in this expensive flat."

"Well, what are we going to do? We can't afford to hire a moving van either."

It is unlawful for men to converse with or make signs at school or college girls in Macon, Ga.

WITH THE NEW ARRIVALS IN WASHINGTON

These photos, snapped since inauguration day at Washington, are of interest. Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, has dodged the high rent problem by buying his family a home at the capital.

It is located at 2224 R street. John W. Weeks, new secretary of war, seems to be searching for a cigar as he steps briskly along the walk in front of the capitol.

Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture was snapped while attending the annual amaryllis show. He and Dr. W. A. Taylor, chief of the bureau of plant industry, are shown examining a prize-winning exhibit. Mrs. Wallace has just returned from a shopping trip.

Maltese Fishermen Discover Apparatus Used by Germans During the War.

Malta.—A complete wireless apparatus which was anchored in 20 fathoms of water off Melleha bay, with the mast and working parts below the surface to a depth of about eight fathoms, has been discovered by a party of Maltese fishermen.

The apparatus, which was subsequently removed by the dock-yard authorities for an examination, is of German construction and is complete in every detail.

ETHEL CLAYTON, APPEALING.
SEAT AT ALHAMBRA THEATER.

The winsome qualities which have made Ethel Clayton so popular with cinema patrons are hers in real life. She is in every respect a "real girl." Possessing unusual beauty and overflowing a position in the front rank of film luminaries, she is nevertheless simple in her tastes and without a trace of "up-staginess." Her exquisite gowns are all of her own designing, and her chief interests in life are the screen, her beautiful new home, and her mother and brother. In other words, if didn't require much of an effort for Miss Clayton to transform herself into the girl-landed young bride of "Young Mrs. Winthrop."

But in addition to all this, Ethel Clayton can act. She was a huge success on the stage when she transferred her talents to the screen several years ago. Successive pictures have marked her rise to the front ranks. Her last previous picture, "The Thirteenth Commandment," has won her unstinted praise everywhere. "Young Mrs. Winthrop" is the same kind of picture. It searches deep into human life and has all those qualities for which Clayton films are famous.

You must see Miss Clayton in "Young Mrs. Winthrop" at the Alhambra to day and tomorrow.

NOT A WORD! NICK CARTER IS COMING.

At last Nick Carter will appear in movies. This announcement caused great joy among movie fans. The first of the Nick Carter pictures will appear at the Grand theater tomorrow and Friday as a Pioneer attraction.

Tom Curigan plays the role of "Nick" and his first picture is just one thrill after another.

MILLIONAIRE CHORUS WITH "CENTURY MIDNIGHT WHIRL."

It is called the "Millionaire Chorus." This chorus is one of the features of the "Century Midnight Whirl" that happy, snappy, whirling entertainment that was a distinctive addition to the society when it went to the Roof to see the "Whirl." Noting their popularity with the Smart Set and the attention they received from New York society leaders on the Roof, some one at some time called them the "Millionaire's Chorus," and the name has stuck. Seats on sale tomorrow. Show at Auditorium Friday.

POPULAR STORY "RED FOAM" AT GRAND.

A well-known and popular fiction story, a famous director and several well-known screen notables have combined forces in the next Seznick Production, "Red Foam," which opens a two-day engagement at the Grand theater beginning tomorrow.

The story, by William H. Hamby, originally appeared in the Saturday Evening Post, and it deals in a big way with people of a small town. The smaller the town, the nearer the people are to nature, and the closer to nature they live the closer to the surface are the emotions and passions. The people in this town live the usual routine existence of such communities until an incident occurs which whips the blood of the people into the red foam of angry passion. Just what this incident is and why it transforms a peaceful rural community into a howling, lawless mob has been most thrillingly depicted by Ralph Ince the famous actor-director, in this special Seznick production.

In the cast will be found Zena Keefe, Huntley Gordon, Harry Tighe, Freeman Barnes and other screen notables.

Unusual lighting effects, new developments in photography, and sets of remarkable completeness and huge dimensions are also said to be incorporated in "Red Foam."

FILM FLICKERS

Rockliffe Fellowes, the popular leading man, who has been called the "Carmichael Cavalier" of the screen, is at his best in the recent Paramount Picture "The Price of Possession" with Ethel Clayton. Fellowes confides his "cave man" possibilities to the studio, however, his abilities were not before the camera, being principally his favorite jet black horse, Satan, and the raising of Allen Holubar and his wife, Dorothy Phillips, who is the star in the big spectacular production "Man, Woman, Marriage," which her husband recently completed for First National are now in New York arranging for its Broadway premiere. The picture is the strongest argument for the triumph of the fair sex and their ideals ever presented in the screen and portrays the kaleidoscopic conflict between the sexes since the dawn of time.

N. Brewster Morse, the eighteen-year-old author of "His Brother's Keeper," "The Crimson Cross," and other screen productions, who is said to be the youngest successful playwright, is to enter the directorial end of motion pictures. He is now finishing the script of an original story entitled "Domestic Relations," which he has written for a new company, and which he will direct.

Frank C. Badgley, the promising young actor whose latest pictures are with Dorothy Gish in "The Ghost in the Garret" and with Marguerite Clark in "Scrambled Wives" is going to forsake the screen for the directing end of motion pictures. He has accepted a position with the Canadian government to handle a producing unit, which will make a number of films of dramatic as well as semi-educational character. Badgley, who won the British Military Cross and a campaign for gallantry during the world war, received his directorial schooling at the D. W. Griffith studio before becoming an actor, Morocco theater.

Lillian and George Randolph Chester have gone to the Pacific coast, where they are to produce "The Son of Walcott," the latest of the celebrated Chester stories for the screen. Although the Chesters have collaborated in preparing many original stories and continuities for motion pictures and are thoroughly versed in the technicalities of the silent art, this is the first picture in which they have assumed full directorial charge. "The Son of Walcott" which is now running serially in Collier's Weekly is the 105th Wallingford story of the George Randolph Chester series and the author states that it will positively be the last.

York's entries for the three years in a row. The "Century Whirl" was a top the Century Roof. The "Millionaire's Chorus" is the famous All New York admired it, and so did the visitors who went to the "Whirl" of the roof.

Its title "Millionaire's Chorus" is significant and descriptive. No one knows how it came to be applied. It is one of three things that just happened. This chorus was the admirer of New York's Smart Set, who made much of its members when they went to the roof, and indeed established it as sort of a popular institution. Men and women of fashion made this chorus a kind of pet affair. They chatted and joked with the girls and entered into the spirit of songs and dances in which this chorus took part. NOT MANY FEEBLE-MINDED Authority Shows That Only Two Per Cent of the Population Can Be So Classed.

The idea that we are menaced as a nation by illiterates and feeble-minded is all wrong. We have illiterates and feeble-minded in our midst, but they are a relatively negligible force numerically. The reverse idea, or idea in the reverse, that we are short on genius, also is wrong, according to Dr. George G. Chambers, director of admissions at the University of Pennsylvania, and the educators who co-operate with him. Doctor Chambers says genius as a national crop is statistically as strong as the more discussed feeble-minded and that each represents a mere 2 per cent of the population.

But genius, says Dr. Chambers, is not the mere possession of a talent swollen to phenomenal degree, perhaps so hypertrophied that it is useless. He denies genius to the man, however great his talents, who cannot and does not exercise them. Genius in his definition is high intelligence followed by actual use of that intelligence in life. And intelligence is the ability to adapt one's self to new circumstances, to one's surroundings—in a word, to be able to know something and make use of one's knowledge. Under this definition it is surprising that the adaptable Yankee should not hold a higher record for genius than 2 per cent.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

BROUGHT ALL HE COULD FIND

Evidently George Had Had Quite a Serious Spill From Bicycle He Had Rented.

Bill Spokes, a second-hand bicycle man, was a just man and usually slept the sleep of the just, but one night his slanting slumbers were disturbed by a voice hailing him below his window.

"What's wrong?" he called out, drowsily.

"D'you remember lending George Smith a machine this afternoon?" piped the voice.

"That's right," said the bicycle man; "but I ain't going to take it in at this time of night. George will have to keep the machine till morrow, and pay by the hour."

"Yes, of course," agreed the voice from below; "that's fair. But George had a bit of a spill through running into a motorcar, and he don't want to pay for the hire of more'n he can help. I've brought round all we can find of the machine so far."

At that the second-hand bicycle man jumped from his bed and rushed angrily to the window.

"And what have you found?" he shouted.

"It's coming up!" piped the voice, and an oil can sailed into the room.—Boston Globe.

Temptation Windows.

In a small Indiana town the Methodist church has stained glass windows on the bottom panels of which are printed verses of Scripture. One that six-year-old Willie has been able to decipher, and from the effort remembers well, goes: "And lead us not into temptation."

Not long after, his mother took him to visit an old friend who had built an expensive new home. Now, in the hall there were two high windows and both of them were made of orange-colored glass. When they entered that room Willie stared and stared but said nothing. But that night when he told his father all about the new house he remembered the orange windows and said: "And oh, dad, they're awfully religious. They've got those windows that keep out temptation."

Back to Medicine of Mayas.

Prof. William Gates, president of the Maya society, states that in Central America there have recently been discovered the evidences of an ancient race of people, with a civilization as old and as cultured as that of the ancient Egyptians. They were of a lofty mental attitude and of high metaphysical qualities.

Among the most important discoveries expected to be made there are the unearthing of native medical works, some of which are already in the hands of the Maya society, that will add valuable specific pharmacopoeia and medicinal knowledge to that science in this country.

Plenty of Hair.

After stumbling in a dark theater for a few minutes I fell into an aisle seat behind a young woman, writes a correspondent, I could not see the screen well, as the girl in front hid most of it from my vision. I could see only the outline of her head against the screen and I thought she had her hat on, so I politely asked her to remove it.

She turned half way around and said: "You flatter me."

As I got a better look at her I realized that she had her hair bobbed and fluffed out so far it made it appear that she wore a hat.

New Fuel Gas.

A Swiss engineer has produced a rich new gas, suitable for use in internal-combustion engines, by first packing sheet-metal drums with alternate layers of common calcium carbide and sawdust, saturated by crude oil, then adding water. The carbide in combining with the water liberates acetylene gas and also generates a high degree of heat which cracks and volatilizes the crude oil, liberating its gases. The two gases then combine to form the new one.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

LICKING NATIVE
IS NATURALIZED

Service in Canadian Army
Expatriated Licking
County Boy Whose Citizenship Is Restored.

The unusual case of Henry R. Bash, who was born and reared in Licking county was disposed of by Examiner
Kiefer when Bash took the oath of allegiance to the United States and was again admitted to citizenship.

Bash went to Canada in April 1918
and enlisted with the Canadian forces, serving throughout the war with the Canadians and being honorably discharged. Bash however when he joined the Canadians took an oath of allegiance to England and voluntarily ex-patriated himself, in reality becoming a citizen of Canada and Great Britain since April 1916. Yesterday afternoon he conformed to the rules for repatriation and was restored to his citizenship in the United States.

Mr. Kiefer stated that if there were any similar cases in the county the men should get in touch with Clerk of Courts Leo Davis and arrange for repatriation at the next hearing which will be held in September.

RELATIONS WITH SOVIETS
GETS EARLY CONSIDERATION

Washington, March 23.—Early consideration is to be given to relations between the United States and Soviet Russia, it was indicated today at the state department.

Formal announcement of any change in the relations between the two countries or in any of the rulings by the Wilson administration may not be made for some time, but it was made clear that already certain modifications of these rulings either are under consideration or have been made.

These decisions were reached independent of the appeal from the Soviet government to President Harding and the American government for a resumption of trade relations between the United States and Russia. That appeal reached the state department today from the White House.

BLOSSOMS PROTECT FRUIT.
Cincinnati, March 23.—Commission-

The campaign for raising the money took only two months. Mrs. Seth

GRANDMOTHER KNEW
There Was Nothing So Good for Congestion and Colds
as Mustard

But the old-fashioned mustard plaster burned and blistered while it acted. Get the relief and help that mustard plasters gave without the plaster and without the blister.

Mustard does it. It is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard. It is scientifically prepared, so that it works wonders, and yet does not blister the tenderest skin.

Gently massage Mustardole in with the finger-tips. See how quickly it brings relief—how speedily the pain disappears.

Use Mustardole for sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints,
sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest
(it often prevents pneumonia).

The Y boys were able to do a bit better passing in the final half but they were off in locating the hoop. The much talked of game between the Ideals and the Angora Wildcats will take place Thursday night at 8 p. m. This will bring some of the "oldtimers" back in the game, as the Angoras consist of "Cap." Bentz, Johnny Kates, Kennedy, Winters and W. Fessler. The Angoras have been planning on a big cleanup on this game, but the Ideals think otherwise. This game promises plenty of action, and will start promptly at 8 p. m. The Newark Pastimes will make their appearance at Buffalo Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27. Those making the trip will be Schenck Brock, Mahan, Atherton, Hawkins and Arnold.

ASKS FOR BOOKS FOR 'SOLDIERS' HOSPITAL

Newark people will contribute books to the hospital for convalescent soldiers at Ateen, N. C., where Mrs. Eliza J. Rankin, formerly of Newark, is librarian, according to a statement issued by a Newark club member today. The statement says:

"Letters have been received by a number of Newark people from Mrs. Eliza J. Rankin, who is librarian in a convalescent hospital in Ateen, N. C., asking for books for the convalescent soldiers. Mrs. Rankin has a very warm place in the hearts of Newark citizens, having been instrumental in founding the City Library and having served as librarian here for several years. Her many friends in Newark will be glad to respond to her request not only by giving books but also by contributing to the high price of service-long periods of invalidism and weary days of recovery, but also to show Mrs. Rankin, their appreciation of her efforts here in Newark and her untiring work among the boys, trying through the medium of books to distract them from their illness.

"The boys want good books, clean new fiction but do not send something your own boy would not care to read—or something you have cast aside as worthless.

"The members of the Monday Tails at their meeting yesterday voted to send one book each.

The Rotarians presented the request at their noon day luncheon today—if other organizations will kindly follow suit it will serve as one more bit of war work from Newark and also to show Mrs. Rankin she is still beloved of Newark citizens.

"Books should be addressed to Mrs. Eliza J. Rankin, Librarian U. S. P. H. S. Hospital, Ateen, N. C."

Mrs. Florence H. Leeds.

Mrs. Florence Helena Lincoln Leeds, the violet-eyed petite young charmer who now occupies the center of the stage in the absorbing Stillman divorce scandal in New York city, started life as a chorus girl. She appeared in the Dillingham-Ziegfeld revue, "The Century Girl," in 1916. She played the part of a "chicken" and was known as "The Chicken" because of her dynamic personality. She met Stillman about four years ago.

Tooker has a big place near Peekskill, N. NATION'S BIG MEN SEE GREAT GOOD FOR COUNTRY IN SCOUTING

Annual Meeting of National Council Held In New York Sees America's Salvation In Extension of Movement To Reach Every Boy—It Is Supplemental To Home, School and Church.

Scout Commissioner L. P. Franklin who attended the annual meeting of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America, held in New York City, March 7, as a representative of the Newark Council, made his report to the local scout council at a meeting held Monday night. Mr. Franklin makes some very interesting statements, and gives a good idea of the bigness of Scouting in America. He states that to him the most important fact in connection with this meeting was that men like Mortimer N. Schiff, John Sherman Hoyt, Colin Livingstone, William D. Murray, Arthur Lettis and many others leave their business and give frequently and unselfishly of their time for the promotion of this great movement for boys. Mr. Franklin stated that this condition is brought about by the fact that these men have caught the vision and seen the possibilities offered by Scouting for character building, and citizenship training.

The National Council is made up of representatives from each local council, and a few men elected at large, and in the supreme legislative body of the Boy Scouts of America. At its annual meeting reports of the various departments and committees are received and plans made for the future development of the work. It is interesting to note some portions of these various reports.

The field department, under Mr. Schiff, as director, reported that during the year 1920, a five year program was adopted, the chief objective being to bring some form of first class council organization to every community, city or county, having a population of 20,000 or over. The program provided for the organization of 100 new first class councils in 1921, and for bringing under some form of first class organization, 215 communities in each of the five succeeding years.

During the year 1920, 128 new councils were organized, making total of January 1, of 382 first class, and 174 second class councils, a grand total of 556.

The finance committee under the leadership of J. S. Hoyt, reported that during the 11 years of its existence the National Council has operated with no working fund or capital. The business of the supply and publication department alone last year amounted to approximately a million dollars. To do such an extensive business without capital is most difficult under normal conditions. Because of his adverse business conditions during the year 1920 it is even more difficult. Because of the need of meeting this situation, and of putting the movement on a strong financial basis, M. L. Schiff, chairman of the organization and field departments, under date of February 3, proposed that a fund of $500,000 be raised to be held by five trustees, who shall administer this fund in accordance with the conditions set forth in his offer, the fund to be used in the payment of existing indebtedness of the Boy Scouts of America, with the understanding that at least $250,000 of the fund be retained as a revolving fund or working capital for the supply, magazine and other commercial departments of the Boy Scouts of America. Mr. Schiff agreed to contribute $100,000 towards this fund provided the full amount raised by April 1. The Laura Spelman Rockefeller Memorial fund trustees have agreed to contribute $100,000 and other contributions have been pledged, some conditionally.

The committee on education reports a number of training courses offered by local councils, and approved by the department of education. The Newark Council is one of these councils and of the 586 certificates issued throughout the country, 14 were received by local men. The educational department reports splendid co-operation from all church boards and organizations, and from all of the schools and educational organizations throughout the country. It is interesting to note that training courses for scout masters have been offered at 19 schools, colleges and universities.

Mr. Franklin believes with other members of the National Council that Scouting is one of this country's greatest responsibilities national, state and local leaders, regardless of politics, race or creed, all agreed:

- (1). That the Boy Scout idea is one of the finest and most inspiring things that ever happened for the boyhood of America.
- (2). That the movement should be extended to reach every boy in the nation.
- (3). That the Boy Scout program of outdoor activities, character building and citizenship training is an indispensable supplementary aid to the home, school and church in making boys into fit men.
- (4). That the Boy Scouts of America should be a permanent American institution supported by all of the people.

The Boy Scout movement has already in its 11 years existence touched the lives of nearly 2,000,000 boys in America. It is nation wide in its influence and activities. The national leaders feel in view of present conditions and circumstances, that the movement was divinely inspired at the time of the inception 11 years ago and that the salvation of our country is wrapped up in it.

SEAPLANE CAN CRUISE IN AIR OR ON WATER

London, March 23.—Details of an entirely new type of seaplane which can either fly or cruise as a warship have been made public here. Two of these ships are being built for the air ministry. The vessels are said to be much like small ships with wings added. They are larger and stronger than any sea-going aircraft yet constructed and each will carry a crew of seven with emplacements for five machine guns. The vessels are being so constructed that, while being light, the hulls are sufficiently seaworthy to ride out the roughest waves. They will be capable of co-operating with the navy and joining in all manoeuvres without a parent vessel operating from a sea base just as the submarine does. They have a range of 1,500 miles and when not flying will be able to taxi along the water, driven by their propellers.

Grace and Glory

The Lord God is a sun and shield; the Lord will give grace and glory: no good thing will he withhold from them that walk uprightly.—Psalm 84: 11.

PRODUCTION AND UNEMPLOYMENT.

The idea is entertained by a good many people, that if they keep production up to a good level, they will promote unemployment. They argue that there is only about so much work in the world to be done. Hence, they say, if we do all we can, there won't be work enough to go around. Better go slow, so the work will hold out. Some trades insist on working only five or six days a week, so as to make the work go further.

In any industry where the people work on that theory, labor costs higher, consequently the producer will charge a higher price. This is what has happened in the building industry in many places, where a 40 hour week and low production has made houses cost so high that few people will build them.

When prices are boosted on any product, then the consumption falls off. People buy such an article very sparingly. So where previously there was a slight tendency to unemployment, this tendency is greatly increased, and more people are thrown out of work. When people turn out a low output, their product costs more, the public is deterred from buying it, and those employed in that line are thrown out of work.

On the contrary where working spaces are efficient and turn out a good product, the labor cost is kept at the minimum. That keeps the price down as low as possible, and encourages the people to buy that product in preference to others. That keeps business good in that line. The only way to get steady employment is to work so efficiently that the public can afford to buy the product.

A leading reason for the unemployment that has prevailed recently, was the high cost production and low relative output of the cars 1919 and 1920. This made goods so costly that the public could not buy. That shut down many factories.

CONSERVATIVES AND PROGRESSIVES.

A business man who recently returned from France, was telling how conservative people are in that country and how they won't move out of their old ruts. They are not very strong on advertising. If a merchant is asked to use publicity methods, he will often say, "If I should advertise and get more business, I would have to enlarge my shop and put on more help."

The hustling American business man is just the opposite. He is always planning for the time when he can branch out and handle more goods, which of course means occupying more room and employing more helpers.

That is one reason why American prosperity has been so much greater than the business success of the more conservative nations of Europe. It also suggests why some business concerns are stationary while others go ahead. Some men do not have the courage to branch out for bigger business, while others are constantly planning for more trade, and the developing advertising campaigns that produce it.

The merchants who can't afford to advertise are frequently the same ones whose money is tied up in goods that lie around on the shelves a long time.

The people who predicted that the United States government was going to be overthrown by revolution in 1920, have now postponed the date to 1921, at which time they will be free to postpone it again to 1928.

The Germans who are now kicking on paying for the damage they did, are the same ones who two years ago were regretting that they had not made a more thorough job of destroying the industries of France.

Business authorities are writing books on "The key to success," but a lot of people are more interested in getting permits for liquor in the bonded warehouses.

DULY EXECUTED BY MILITARY

(The Ford Weekly, March 12)

Six boys sentenced to death by court-martial for "levying war" against the British government were "duly executed by the military" in Cork the other day. The boys, whose average age was 20 years, were shot in batches of two at fifteen-minute intervals. Five of the youngsters were accused of having attacked the Crown forces a few weeks before, the sixth was shot for having a revolver and ammunition in his possession. It was the sentence of this last youngster that the Court of King's Bench had confirmed a few days before in its decision that "a state of war existed in Ireland," giving the military full power to act without interference of the civil courts.

An appeal for clemency for the boys, unanimously signed by the council and aldermen of their home city, was rejected by the authorities. Although the relatives immediately petitioned for leave to bury the bodies, they were taken away to the county jail and there destroyed in graves of quicklime.

This is the plain, bald, recital of a single incident in the present upheaval in Ireland, as narrated by the Associated Press dispatches of February 28 last. To those whom familiarity with war brutality and slaughter had not made callous, the news must have conveyed some such shock, sickening horror as that in the war was aroused in all of us by stories of "Hun atrocities," or of outrage and massacre by "the unspeakable Turk."

There are several considerations to be taken into account, if the actual human and historical value of the incident is to be rightly weighed. Here are a few of the more obvious: These boys, slaughtered in cold blood for "levying war" against the Crown forces, were accused not of warring against their own country, not against the government of their own country, chosen by a majority of about 90 per cent of the voters of Ireland; but against what they regarded as a foreign invader ruthlessly and relentlessly putting their native land to fire and sword. For on the night judicial authorities of this "foreign invader" had declared that a "state of war" existed between Ireland and England. Legally and actually, this is undoubtedly the case. Why then were the boys captured, held, and executed, at least the simple status of prisoners of war? Only a few months ago, a British general was captured by the Irish Republican troops but he was not shot by them. On the contrary, he was respectfully treated with all the consideration accorded to a prisoner of his rank in wars between civilized nations. At rare intervals during the Great War, charges were made on both sides of the killing of prisoners, and even hardened militarists denounced such butchery as the blackest of crimes and one in utter violation of even the scant decencies still demanded of belligerents.

We may take the stand that the millions of Americans of Irish blood and breeding must be Americans, and that they are not to be regarded as Irish, nor even as Irish-American. But even if there were not a single American of Irish blood in the United States, we could not shut our eyes to such doings in Ireland. Americans who are not Sinn Féiners, or narrow nationalists in any respect, will with difficulty repress a deep sense of dissent and revolt against a winter slaughter that must encourage the elementary feelings of humanity the world over.

BORROWED HUSBANDS

By MILDRED K. BARBOUR

LXIII.—A New Edith.

When Nancy returned to the house, she met Miss Dean bearing a bowl of cracked ice through the upper corridor.

A desire to talk further with this extremely cool and efficient young person prompted Nancy to say:

"Why do you trouble to go to the kitchen? The servants will obey all instructions."

The nurse favored her with a cool impassive stare.

"I prefer to look after such things myself. Servants cannot be trusted to wash ice properly, and they have no idea of sterilization."

Nancy bit her lips, but she answered lightly:

"Oh what prophylactic people! One has to wonder how you ever get things and die!"

She went to her own room and shut the door, making a little grimace. "What an unpleasant young person! I'd hate to have her nurse me! Poor Fleuriette!"

She was lying on a chaise longue in her dressing room, when she heard a motor on the drive. It stopped at the veranda steps and Dr. Langwell's brisk tones came up to her.

A few minutes later there were quick light step in the hall, and a tap on her door.

Edith entered in response to Nancy's call.

It was a new Edith with shining eyes and faintly flushed cheeks and a queer breathlessness.

She was like someone awakened from a long sleep to vivid, eager, pulsing life.

"How lovely you look!" Nancy cried involuntarily as she switched on the electric light.

Edith blushed and shrank a little from the light.

"I like the twilight. Must we have light for a chat?"

Nancy obediently pushed the button that extinguished the offending brilliance, but not before she had noted that Edith were a cluster of orchids pinned on the front of her fur wrap.

"Flowers are everything," she murmured. "You look like somebody's sweetheart."

"I've had a wonderful day," said Edith with a curious shyness. "It was glorious motorizing into town this morning, and I enjoyed the drive out too."

"Isn't often I see such a sunset," Nancy chuckled, curling up in her cushions.

"Don't tell me all this radiance came from a sunset. There have been more than a half dozen sunsets since I came to stay with you, but I never saw one reflected in your eyes and cheeks before. Don't try to fool Nancy. Tell me what happened today."

Edith laughed softly, reminiscently, then sobered suddenly.

"How is Fleuriette?"

"Oh, I dare say she's all right now," Nancy tried to sound casual. "The paragon arrived at noon and I was relieved of responsibility."

"The paragon?"

"Miss Dean that the doctor sent. I'd advise you not to venture near the sick-room without being sterilized. She's that kind of a nurse."

"Miss Dean? I don't seem to remember her," I thought. I knew all the nurses at the hospital by name at least.

"No need to wall because you've missed the opportunity of meeting this very early date? They are found on Greek coins, medals and seals, and are particularly numerous on the coins of Macedonia and Sicily. Monograms occur on the family coins of Rome but not on the coins of the earlier Roman emperors. Constantine placed on his coins one of the earliest of Christian monograms, composed of the first and second letters of Christus. Another monogram is IHS, from the first three letters of the Greek word meaning Jesus."

A Careful Man.
This week's prize for forethought goes to the man reported in the Macon Record who went to a neighboring city for an X-ray examination and took the local undertaker along.

Strength Will Win.
"An apple a day keeps the doctor away," observed Uncle Peter McRunyon.

"Well, that may be true," responded Aunt Prue.

"But probably so would an onion."

—Newark Advocate.

On an onion a day will keep doctors away. Of this there's no doubt, said Mr. Gorrums.

But the essence will cling to your breath and by jing Your friends will desert you in swarms.

BIG MEMORIAL IS PLANNED BY LEGION

Indianapolis, March 23.—Architects from all parts of the country, will be invited to submit designs and plans for the $15,000,000 Indiana war memorial building here, which will house national headquarters of the American Legion. A fund of $100,000 was granted by the state legislature for prizes and expenses of the contest.

The winner of the first prize of $15,000 will be determined by the National Institute of Architecture. Tentative plans for the construction of the edifice are now in the hands of the state war memorial commission, of which postmaster General Will Hays is a member.

Five city blocks in the center of Indianapolis will be utilized for the memorial project. The memorial building will be erected in the middle block with the remaining plots transformed into a magnificent city plaza. At one end of the memorial site is located the Federal building, erected at a cost of $6,000,000 and, facing the other end of the plaza, is the new $3,000,000 city library.

Invitations have been submitted to national headquarters of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Women's Relief corps, Service Star Legion, American War Mothers, United Spanish Veterans and the Women's Auxiliary of the Legion to occupy quarters in the building along with the legion.

LISTEN, WORLD!

(By Elsie Robinson.)

I think it was Owen Wister who said that the worst thing that had ever happened to American boys was the theory that any one of them might be President. Whoever said it said an awful, and I'm here with another. The worst thing that ever happened to American GIRLS is the widespread belief that each and every one of 'em looks like some movie star.

I'm getting on my nerves something awful, this exotic style in young womanhood. When I first emerged into the world we traveled on the merits we were born with. If we weren't born with any, we just settled down and learned to cook. We wore wool dresses and aprons and "pebble goat" shoes to school, and "caiton" flannel nighties with china buttons in 'em when we went to bed. Our hair was slicked back with "round combs" every morning, and long about school time you could hear the whole block yelling while the slicking went on. And we washed with the kitchen soap.

Those were durable days, made to wash and not fade. Mother didn't fit up your wardrobe then for a life of crime. Not by a jugful.

But what have we now, and what are we going to do with it after we've got it? I suppose it's human—I suppose it eats bread an' jam after school and plays fith the cat, but somehow it's hard to imagine. I've been out early and stayed out late, and I've yet to see one of them with the laquer ever chipped. They're wonderful, these little girls of today.

I don't mind folks wearing paint half a foot thick and clothes half an inch thin if, after they're covered and uncovered, they'll turn their thoughts to something else. But they don't. They just totter down the street looking like the fourth reel in a Turbid Triangle, and I tell you, it's getting me! Some day I'm going to forget myself and lurch out—and when I stand up again there'll be a LI' bustered Blonde in my hands. They'll put me away, I know, but I'll leave a happier world behind me.
